Subject: Complaint regarding Concerned Taxpayers of Washington State, PDC Case 55220

Dear Guy Thompson:

The Public Disclosure Commission (PDC) has completed its review of the complaint you filed on July 17, 2019. Your complaint alleged that Concerned Taxpayers of Washington State, a continuing political committee registered for calendar year 2019, may have violated RCW 42.17A.320 for failure to include sponsor identification on digital political advertising done in support of People for Nadine Woodward, a 2019 candidate for Spokane mayor.

PDC staff reviewed your allegations; the applicable statutes, rules, and reporting requirements; the response provided by Dan Brady on behalf of his client Concerned Taxpayers of Washington State; the response provided in a related case by WA Realtors PAC, PDC Case #55218; and the applicable PDC reports filed by Respondent, to determine whether the record supports a finding of one or more violations.

Based on staff's review, we found the following:

- Concerned Taxpayers of Washington State is a continuing political action committee registered for calendar year 2019 and filing Summary Full Campaign Contribution and Expenditure reports (C-4 reports) and Independent Spending & Electioneering Communications reports (C-6 reports), disclosing expenditures made in support of candidates running in the 2019 primary and general elections.
- RCW 42.17A.320 requires that, unless otherwise exempt, all written political advertisement shall include the sponsor's name and address and if the political advertisement is undertaken as an independent expenditure, the advertisement must also include the statement "No candidate authorized this ad. It is paid for by (name, address, city, state)." In addition, if the sponsor is a political committee, the ad must also include the statement "Top Five Contributors," followed by the names of the largest contributors to the committee, and, if necessary, the statement "Top Three Donors to PAC Contributors" followed by the names of non-PAC donors.
- WAC 390-18-030 identifies exemptions from sponsor identification and alternatives for online advertising stating that "small online advertising may provide the required disclosures by using an automatic display with the advertising that takes a reader directly the required disclosures" with one click.
- The complaint included static copies of a digital political advertisement supporting 2019 Spokane mayoral candidate, Nadine Woodward, which the complaint alleged did not contain the required sponsor identification language required by RCW 42.17A.320 and that the person responsible for the ads was unknown to the public. The ads were presented to the public from July 9, 2019 until August 6, 2019.

- In his response, Mr. Brady stated that Concerned Taxpayers of Washington State did not sponsor or produce the advertisements referenced in the complaint.
- The response provided in PDC Case #55218 stated that WA Realtors PAC was responsible for the advertisements referenced in the complaint and that the ads did contain the required sponsor identification accessible through one click.
- Staff's review of the landing page originally accessible through one click from the online advertisement found the required sponsor identification language with the top five and top three contributors required by RCW 42.17A.320.

It appears that the online advertisements presented in support of the People for Nadine Woodward 2019 campaign were sponsored by WA Realtors PAC and that the advertisements contained sponsor identification required by RCW 42.17.320 and WAC 390-18-030 and were accessible through one click on the ad. Although Concerned Taxpayers of Washington State has disclosed on C-6 reports, other expenditures done in support of the Woodward campaign, they did not sponsor the online advertisements in this complaint.

Based on these findings staff has determined that, in this instance, no evidence supports a finding of a violation warranting further investigation.

Based on this information, the PDC finds that no further action is warranted and has dismissed this matter in accordance with RCW 42.17A.755(1).
