

Complaint Description

Glen Morgan (Sun, 27 Oct 2019 at 9:30 PM)

To whom it may concern,

It is clear and obvious that widespread, egregious violations of Washington State's campaign finance laws (RCW 42.17A) are being committed by Keep Washington Rolling PAC right now during this 2019 political campaign season in their multi-million campaign to oppose Initiative 976. Every time I turn around, I find more. Attached is even more additional supporting evidence...

1) Failure to identify top 5 donors (or any donors) on massive campaign mailers (Violation of RCW 42.17A.320)

Attached is further evidence of these violations. These are two different mailers apparently distributed in Thurston County for this batch, but similar ones have been sent across Washington State. These are different than the two flyer examples I have already submitted to the PDC(See PDC Enforcement Case #59150)

It is still unclear from the lack of detail provided by this secretive, well-funded corporate PAC how many mailers have been distributed to voters across Washington State in an effort to influence the outcome of this election. However, as the attached mailer proves and further verifies, this PAC made zero effort to comply with this transparency requirement No attempt at all. No top 5 donors were identified. I have attached a photos of both sides of two of these dark money flyers.

Please keep in mind, these later mailers like this are still going out, despite the fact this PAC has been notified by the PDC about the original complaint (so they are fully aware of their violations, and they made no effort to change the as yet unprinted mailers still being sent out). They presume they won't be held accountable, or if so, it will just be a wrist slap and they can budget for the micro fine. They have $4.5 million, I'm sure they believe they can buy their way out of Washington State's campaign finance laws...

I will reiterate again, there is no excuse for this type of flagrant and willful violation of the state's campaign finance laws. Clearly, they didn't want the public to know that Microsoft, Amazon, Vulcan, ACEC Washington, and Expedia were the top 5 donors to this campaign. This campaign has some of the most experienced treasurers and consultants in the state of Washington getting paid big bucks to spend this corporate money influencing the voters. They know full well the state's requirements, and they have made a willful corporate business decision to violate the law and take the minor wrist slap fine which might be imposed on them for breaking the law. Just a minor cost of business in today's campaign finance world where the wealthy and politically connected don't have to follow the law. It also doesn't hurt that most of these donors have also contributed to the Washington State Attorney General's election campaign in the past and plan to do so in the future. This was also good insurance to make sure Washington State's AG Bob Ferguson won't throw the book at them. A wrist slap fine and some legal pat-a-cake is okay, but nothing serious.

The only way to verify exactly how many millions of mailers this PAC distributed without this basic disclosure statement would be to completely audit the mail houses and media companies hired by this PAC.

I'm sure additional evidence will be trickling in on this case, but that evidence will only serve to support the irrefutable facts alleged in this and previous complaints against this organization.

Best Regards,

Glen Morgan

I-976 Would Cut, Delay or Eliminate Dozens of Vital Transportation Projects in Kitsap, Thurston and Mason Counties

i-976, Tim Eyman's latest misguided, deceptive initiative, would irresponsibly slash state and local transportation funding by more than $4.2 billion over ten years, crippling our ability to reduce traffic congestion and address critical safety issues on our roads, bridges and overpasses in every corner of our state.

In addition, I-976 would have a brutal impact on transportation right here in our corner of the state, killing projects that our communities have approved to help address our own transportation issues.

This map includes just some of the devastating cuts that will occur in our region if I-976 passes.
