After having a conversation with Tabitha Townsend, I had no idea it was illegal to put political signs on school property. There were complaints towards two people, one running for the school board and another running for city council. There are a lot of other signs up, not just these two. I will do my due diligence to contact the owners of the signs to have them removed. This is not the first time our property was used for political signs. But this is the first time anyone has complained. I wonder why the complaint wasn't toward all the owners' of the signs that were posted.
