Complaint Description
Preston ossman reported via the portal (Wed, 27 Oct 2021 at 1:04 PM) -- Attached is a mailer, sent by postal code, which, given the number of voters in the district, probably cost a conservative est. of $10,000 alone. -- It is my belief that this mailer has not or will not be filed in campaign disclosures for these candidates. Based on the fact that they are mini-filers, this mailer, in combination with and other campaign expenditures, will very likely be exceed campaign expenditure limits. -- If, on the on the other hand, this is an independent expenditure, the contributors are not properly disclosed and, from my research, have not filed the appropriate C6 in a timely manner.
What impact does the alleged violation(s) have on the public?
It is my belief that the these candidates have violated both their campaign contribution limits and failed to report donations and expenditures that would demonstrate this. In a small town race, overspending has a deleterious effect on the elections, giving some candidates a pronounced higher degree of visibility, while their opponents are still playing by the rules.

There has been a steady decline in enrollment, with many speculations as to why. This is the Washington State report card for the SW School District (2018-2019), which may provide a part of the answer. It isn't a lack of school aged children or work opportunity for families, because private schools are bursting with students and all have waiting lists. Parents are choosing to place their children where they will get the best education. We need to listen to the community and make changes that focus on our children's education. We don't need excuses, we need answers and a school board that will listen and actively seek solutions.

The pictures to your left were taken in August. Our South Whidbey Schools are older and are showing signs of age, however, these pictures of our high school show neglect. Older schools don't have to look like an abandoned prison. This is simply poor management, and these pictures should disturb you. This is where our high school students go to school and they deserve better! It's time for a school board that will respond positively to challenges and to address concerns like this. Vote for change on November 2nd.
